
Title: The attack on DKF

Author: Cecil, Deathsworn, SES

As a letter sealed with the crest of Ebon Skull came to Cecil, he knew that there was an important message conseld within. He opened it with care and unfolded
the decaying skin which the letter was written on.

"Cecil, your time has come. I now assign you the quest to prove your loyalty to the Skull. You are to venture forth, into the lands of the lightbringers. I wish for you to kill one of the followers of light, and bring me his weopon. Do this and survive and you will be on the path to darkness."

-Beleth, Demon Lord, OES
After reading this letter, Cecil was pleased to hear that is time has finally come. It is almost time for him to become unborn. He then preceeded to fold the letter and put it in his pouch on his hip.

"I will venture forth into the lands of the lightbringers, and I will do what I am told, and slay a follower of light, and with him, everyone that stands in my way. Cecil then said the dark words of "Kal Ort Por" and he vanished from the lands of Caina.

As a gate opened in front of the Dwarven War Hall of Findar, the dwarves stepped back.

They did not expect any visitors at this time of night, just when they were settling in for the night. Just as there eyes adjusted to the bright light of the portal, they saw a dark figure step through. Theodor Axehand, the Thane of Findar, recognized him immediatly, for he has served with him in the ranks of the Hedge Run Barony. Theodor went on to say "So Cecil, old friend, you have fallen down the darkened path I see.

What brings you to my lands now, you are no longer welcome here. So be gone!!"

"Nay, Thane of Findar, I will not leave until my bidding is done. Do you lack the courage now to fight me in mortal combat. Or must I go through every one of your pawns?"

This is when Lorrio, on of the dwarven warriors stepped up.

"Aye, Cecil, follower of the Skull, you will have to go through me!!"

Jarvis, the Dwarven Cleric also stepped forward, along with Diana, another dwarven warrior.

As they drew there blades out, Cecil reached behind him to pull forth, his dreaded Executioner Axe of Shadow. With this the first of the dwarves, Lorrio, lundged at Cecil. He was quick to block the attack to the side, and as Lorrio came for another strike, Cecil laid into him a fatal blow, that sent the dwarf to Oblivion. With one down, the other dwarf Diana turned and ran back into the guild hall.

"Ha! What cowards you dwarves have become. Come Jarvis, do you think your dwarven magic is enough to stop the strength of a follower of the Skull?"

Jarvis then went to cast a powerful explosion/flamestrike combo, but Cecil was quick to disrupt the spell, while cutting through Jarvis with a strong concussion blow. This upset the cast of Jarvis greatly and sent him on the defensive. Trying to run like the coward he was, Cecil laid the final blow in his back, the way a coward should die.

Now no one remained to defend the king of Findar, Theodor Axehand.

"Hmm...", theo said, "I will deal with you myself"

"That is all I ask, Thane of Findar."

With that said, the two clashed together, with there two powerful weapons blazing with speed and accuracy.

Cecil had the upper hand, but that is when Theodor landed a powerful crushing blow, that rattled Cecil and caused him to fall back into the woods to regroup. As he returned the Dwarven Cleric, Jarvis had returned. "Must I deal with you again, Cleric. Did you not already learn your lesson?"

"Aye you will have to face me again follower of the shadows. Yes.....you will!!" With this they began to battle for the second time.

Continues.....